leaders in defensive driving

defensive driving course overview

what is defensive driving?

Defensive driving is a set of thinking skills to make driving safer and easier. These skills aren't taught at licence level, but they can prevent nearly all emergencies and crashes.

how does one become a defensive driver?

There are two stages: first is learning the thinking skills needed to drive defensively. Next is to practice these skills on every drive until they become second nature.

how does one learn defensive skills?

Until 2013, the only option was to drive with an instructor on public roads. Since then, our online self-study Defensive Driving Course has empowered drivers to learn at their own pace via almost any Internet-connected device.

Our proven online training system allows clients to deploy standardised, impactful training to fleets of any size, across any geographical area.

what are the benefits ?

Driving.co.za's corporate clients have seen their crash rates drop by up to 80% after our training. Other benefits include fuel savings and reductions in maintenance.

The convenience and affordability of our online self-study Defensive Driving Course has enabled hundreds of companies to keep their staff safer and reduce fleet costs.
